JURY TO VISIT VAN AKEN PROPERTY

The jury which is trying Edwin Van Aken for murder in the first degree in county court will visit the Van Aken premises early Monday morning before court reconvenes. Judge Jenkins on Friday afternoon asked whether both sides assented to the proposition which had been made for the jury to go to Port Ewen, and both District Attorney Cunningham and Corporation Counsel Brinnier said they were of the opinion they had been on Thursday. Judge Jenkins accordingly directed that the jury be taken to Port Ewen Monday morning.

Juror Van Aken Goes Home.

Before the adjournment of court for the day, Judge Jenkins called attention to the fact that Juror Riley Van Aken of Clayville had met with an affliction in the death of his father-in-law, who died suddenly Friday morning. Mrs. Van Aken was alone with him and was most anxious for her husband's return home for the funeral, and Juror Van Aken was anxious to go there, accompanied by an officer.

District Attorney Cunningham and Corporation Counsel Brinnier agreed that it was proper Juror Van Aken should be sent home, and he was taken to Clayville with an officer in an automobile after the adjournment of court.

The Afternoon's Testimony.

The testimony of George W. Dumond was concluded, and Chief of Police Wood was also examined. George W. Dumond was recalled to the stand after the noon recess and his direct examination by District Attorney Cunningham was continued.

Edwin Van Aken had said when asked on the second day why he had said on the first day he had gone to the ferry by way of Broadway instead of going by the back streets, "I did go the back way. I must have made a mistake."

Aided District Attorneys for Thirty Years.

Cross-examined by Mr. Brinnier, Mr. Dumond said there was no established information bureau in the district attorney's office but for thirty years every district attorney had called on him to investigate cases. Two cases investigated in past years had been for Edwin Van Aken.

Q—"Did you make an investigation of the jurors summoned for this case?"

A—"Some of them."

Q—"How many?"

A—"About ten."

Mr. Brinnier said the purpose of the questions was to show that Mr. Dumond's personal interest in the case was a matter for the jury to consider.

Made Memoranda of Conversations.

The conversations with Mr. Van Aken had been put down in writing after they occurred, he said.

Q—"And where is that written memorandum?"

A—"The full conversations are in the grand jury testimony."

The memoranda was in a little book which was at his home.

Q—"How long will it take to get that book?"

A—"Some little time."

Judge Jenkins suggested any books might be produced under subpoena.

"Give me a subpoena, Mr. Clerk," said Mr. Brinnier.

"Please proceed with the examination, Mr. Brinnier," suggested Judge Jenkins, "and let one of your assistants make out the subpoena."

Mr. Brinnier wanted court to suspend while Mr. Dumond went home for his book, but Judge Jenkins refused to adjourn court for that purpose, saying the book could be produced later.

Mr. Dumond said he did not recall the first memorandum he had put in the book. He did not know whether he could find the memorandum book and how long since he had examined the book.

The Meat in the House.

On the first day he was at the Van Aken house from 2:50 o'clock until 3 o'clock. He saw no other meat in the house except the porterhouse steak and the pork chops. When he asked questions of Edwin Van Aken, it was for the purpose of getting what information he could.

The conversation when Van Aken said he drove down Broadway to the ferry occurred near the back stoop.

District Attorney Cunningham called attention to the fact that Mr. Brinnier was commenting with "That's good" and "That's fine" after each answer, which was a violation of a well known court rule. Mr. Brinnier said he trusted the rule would be enforced against Mr. Cunningham also.

"I ask the court to say that I have not commented," said District Attorney Cunningham.

The court does not make any comments," said Judge Jenkins.

"I thought you wouldn't say he hadn't commented," exclaimed Mr. Brinnier.

Asked who was present when Edwin Van Aken talked about his conversation with Henry E. McKenzie, Mr. Dumond said he believed only Van Aken, Sheriff Doyle and himself were present.

"I didn't ask you what you believe, but what you know," said Mr. Brinnier.

Q—"Now in giving your testimony, you don't need to say you have given the exact language of each conversation you had with Edwin Van Aken?"

A—"Probably not."

Q—"You have given only the substance, haven't you?"

A—"More than that."
Q—"How much more?"
A—"I made memoranda on paper—abbreviations."
Q—"Made at the time you had the conversations?"
A—"Not at that time, but when I reached home."
Q—"Hours afterward?"
A—"At night."

Mr. Brinnier Becomes Caustic.

Some of the notes were made by Mr. Dumond after Van Aken had made his various statements "as soon as he could get rid of him." They were not made while Van Aken was talking.

While Mr. Brinnier was urging Judge Jenkins to listen to his reasons for asking certain questions which were being overruled, District Attorney Cunningham objected and asked "May I ask what there is before the court?"

"There isn't much when you're there," exclaimed Mr. Brinnier, who appeared to be somewhat exasperated.

The questions related to what Dr. Ross had testified to on his examination, in regard to the condition of Mrs. Van Aken's body and the pillow under her head. Dr. Ross testified he placed it there. Mr. Dumond did not know if any changes had been made in the room before he reached the house. Van Aken was willing to do anything Mr. Dumond asked him, furnishing a light and a flashlight, accompanying him about the premises.

Q—"Did his actions evidence a desire to assist you in every way about the premises where this unfortunate affair took place?"

This question and a long line of similar questions were ruled to be objectionable as to form and calling for conclusions.

What He Did Not Tell the Van Aken.

Q—"Did you tell George Van Aken you didn't care what time Henry McKenzie said Eddie crossed the ferry; that you knew what time he crossed?"

Objected to and sustained.

A similar question, substituting Edwin Van Aken's name for that of George Van Aken was objected to and sustained.

On re-direct examination Mr. Dumond said he did not investigate the political or religious affiliations of any jurors and he had not talked with any of the jurors on the present panel.

While Judge Stephan, Edwin Van Aken's attorney in the present case, was district attorney, Mr. Dumond made an investigation of the Cornell Van Aken murder case for Judge Stephan, and other cases, similar to the investigation he had made in the present case, and also had made similar investigations for the late Judge Cantine when he was district attorney.

Chief Wood a Witness.

Chief of Police J. Allan Wood testified he visited the Van Aken premises on October 23, the day following the murder. The body was not in the bed room where it was found at that time. Mr. Parks, the finger print expert, was present, and Edwin Van Aken was also there.

Chief Wood was introduced to Edwin Van Aken and asked him to tell what he had done the previous day. Van Aken outlined his movements briefly.

Blood on Neatly Folded Towel.

Some towels were on a rod in the room. Parks asked Van Aken if he had an inkling pad, and Van Aken produced one. At Parks's request, Van Aken pressed his fingers on the pad and then on paper. After Parks and Van Aken had washed their hands, Parks picked up a neatly folded towel, on the inside of the towel was a blood mark.

Package of Sliced Ham in the Barn.

Later in the afternoon, the chief and Mr. Parks visited the barn while Edwin Van Aken was there. They made a search of the barn and found a package which they unwrapped. The contents proved to be sliced ham.

While they were in the barn they examined several pairs of shoes which were found there. Indicating a pair of shoes Edwin Van Aken was holding in his hand, Edwin Van Aken said they were not the same shoes he had worn the day before; that the shoes he had worn the previous day were the shoes he had on his feet, and that he had some other shoes upstairs in the house.

Van Aken's List of Missing Jewelry.

The chief had asked Edwin Van Aken to furnish him with a list of the stolen jewelry. Van Aken told him there was a lady's gold hunting case watch, the number of which could be obtained from Vignes, the jeweler; a plain gold ring; a plain gold band ring with the initials "C. V. A." inside; another plain gold band ring with the initials "E. V. A." inside, and a breastpin.

What Van Aken Said About the Desk.

Edwin Van Aken also had said that in his desk in the room where the telephone was, there had been $224 in denominations of $20, $10 and $5. When he returned from Rondout, he put the meat on the kitchen table and went in the room where the desk was, and noticed the desk had been tampered with. Then he called for his wife and when she did not answer he went looking for her. He found her dead.

Chief Wood asked him how he came to go in the room where the desk was. Edwin had turned to his brother, George, and said, "I don't know how I came to go in that room." The chief then asked him if there was anything in the room to attract his attention, and turning to him, Edwin had replied, "The papers were in confusion."

Edwin Van Aken also told the chief that he had taken the meat down cellar after he had telephoned to Dr. Ross.

Went There Professionally.

On Mr. Brinnier's cross-examination, Chief Wood said he had not seen Mr. Parks, the finger print expert, since October 23. He found several ladies in the house when he arrived there, among them being Mrs. George Van Aken.

Q—"You had no friendly purpose in going there, did you?"

A—"I went with Mr. Parks at the request of Mr. Traver."

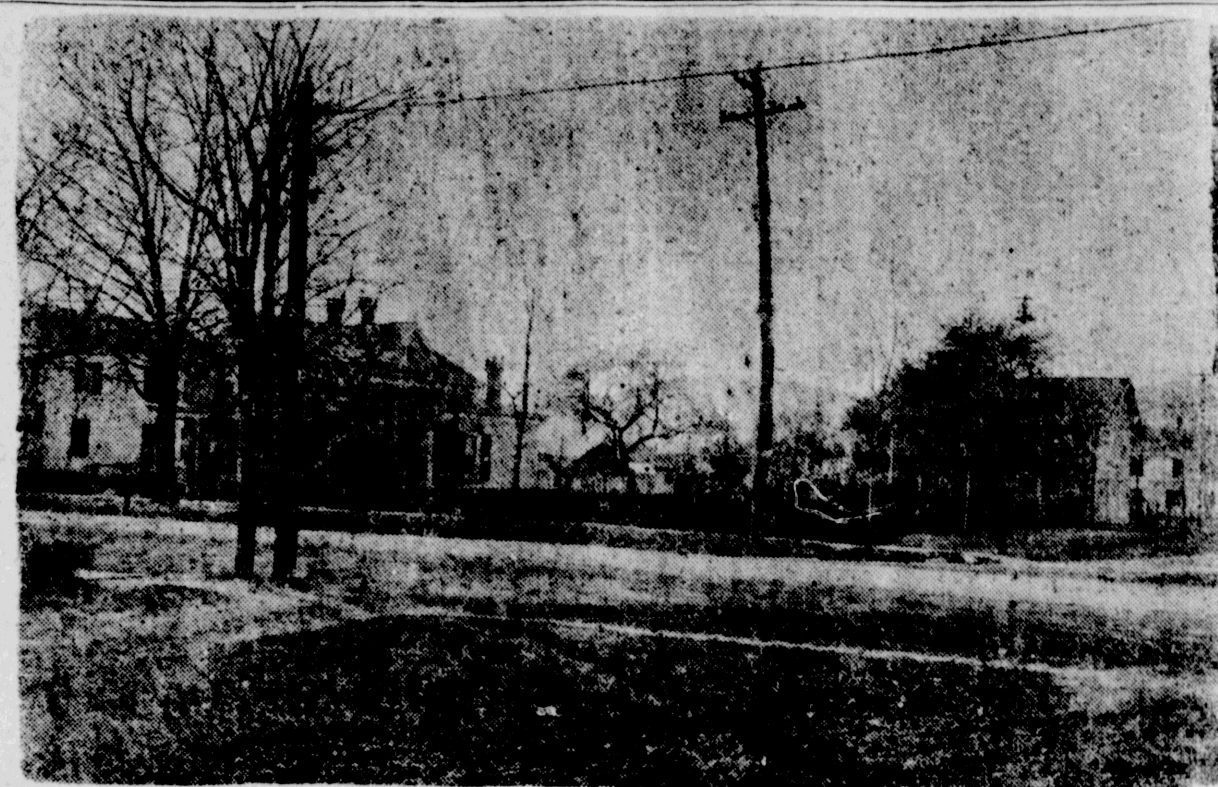

Q—"But you had had no social relations with the Van Aken, that would take you there at that time?"

A—"No."

Q—"So you went there professionally?"

A—"Certainly; to get information."

This concluded Chief Wood's testimony and court adjourned until Monday morning at ten o'clock.

FORSYTH & DAVIS BUY POUGHKEEPSIE STORE

Forsyth & Davis of this city have completed negotiations for the purchase of the large wholesale stationery and paper business of Jansen Roberts of Poughkeepsie, Mr. Roberts being forced to retire from business owing to ill health. The plant is located at No. 34 Cottage street, Poughkeepsie, and is a three-story and basement structure with complete facilities for handling a wholesale jobbing business. The plant adjoins the Nelson Morris building. A switch from the Central New England Railroad enables the unloading of cars at the doors of the plant.

With the addition of the Roberts plant to their already large business, Forsyth & Davis will have one of the largest jobbing and stationery businesses in the state. John Boice, the traveling representative of the local concern in this city and vicinity will make his headquarters in Poughkeepsie to look after the trade cared for by Mr. Roberts and Eugene Livingston of this city will look after the Kingston territory formerly cared for by Mr. Boice as well as some of his former territory. The firm will add another salesman to its force to look after the territory left vacant by the promotion of Mr. Boice and Mr. Livingston, both of whom have been with the firm for the past fifteen years.

TEST GIVEN NEW MOTOR FIRE TRUCK

A test of the new motor fire truck was made on Friday afternoon when the experts from the factory took it for a spin with Fire Commissioners Koits and Lahl on board. The truck is a six-cylinder affair and certainly stirred up some dust. Besides a horn the truck is equipped with a locomotive bell and it can be heard for a long distance. The commissioners had the ride of their life. This morning the truck was taken to the Mary Powell dock and given an informal test as to its pumping facilities. A stream was thrown nearly to the Island Dock. A formal test of the pump will be made at a later date. A test of the running abilities of the truck up Broadway with its siren blowing and bell ringing brought traffic to practically a standstill while the machine was passing. From all outward appearances the truck seems capable of responding to an alarm in as quick as a wink.

Cornell Examinations.

But four students appeared at Kingston examinations this morning to take the examinations for Cornell scholarship allotted to Uster county. The students were: Fred Foerster, Lockwood of Hurley, a student at Kingston Academy, Carl Jay Hasbrouck of Highland, a student at the Highland high school, James J. White has gone to Philadelphia. Fout writes to his fellow members of the police force that he started on his vacation for a change and rest but that the waiters in the hotels got all the change and the hotels got the rest. He and White will meet in Philadelphia to see the sights of the Quaker City.

CENSUS TAKING PROCEEDS SMOOTHLY

The work of taking the census in Kingston and Ulster county is proceeding smoothly and the enumerators in the city are averaging about one hundred and fifty names a day while in the districts outside the city the work is progressing more slowly owing to the fact that the districts are not so thickly populated and the enumerators are securing from twenty to one hundred names a day depending on the distances they have to cover between the residences. The work of taking the census has to be completed by the fifteenth of this month.

Forsyth & Davis have sold and delivered to Charles A. Warren of this city a McFarland runabout equipped with a special body from specifications furnished by Mr. Warren.

It is of French design and the grey body with black trimmings of the car used in demonstration by Mr. Freer attracts much attention. A large searchlight on the radiator is one of its noticeable features and already prospective purchasers of automobiles are thinking of ordering this car.

Opened a Charge Account.

He was about twenty-five years old, and it was his wedding day. After the ceremony, when the time came to fee the minister, he calmly said: "Charge it." The minister never saw or heard of him after that.

20,000 HUNGRY PERSONS FED

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, June 5.—More than 20,000 hungry persons already have been fed from the two carloads of Red Cross provisions which have reached Monterey, Consul General Hanna today reported to the state department.

Corn was supplied to more than seven thousand persons yesterday at the American hospital.

Generals Davila, Zeertuche and Santos requested Zapata to thank President Wilson and the Red Cross for the supplies on behalf of the needy people of Monterey and vicinity.

Hanna sent an urgent appeal to the American people to contribute liberally to help the people of Northern Mexico now. He reported that corn, beans and rice are needed in quantity and at once.

The consul general urged that the American people save the lives of the poor Mexicans, most of whom are in no way responsible for their destitute condition.

GERMAN AIR RAID ON BRITISH COAST

By Telegram to The Freeman. London, June 5.—Another German air raid was made over the eastern and southern coast of England last night.

Bombs were dropped at a number of points, but the admiralty in an official statement said that little material damage was done.

This was the eighteenth air raid launched against the British coast by the Germans, the seventeenth being an attack upon the city of London.

The following official statement was given out by the admiralty: "Hostile airships visited the eastern and southern coasts last night. Bombs were dropped at various places, but little material damage was done. The casualties so far as reported are very few."

From information given out by the government it is evident that the Germans planned their latest raid as an attack against the docks and naval stations and not against the city.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, June 5.—Business on the stock exchange this morning was small with stocks in supply at concessions and fractional losses were generally recorded in the initial dealings. There was no special pressure, however, the lower range being chiefly due to an absence of demand. United States Steel Common was the only issue in which trading was on a large scale. The first sales of that stock were 8,000 shares at 60 to 59 3/4 against 60 1/2 at the close yesterday. American Can declined a point to 41 1/2 and fractional losses were sustained in Union Pacific, Reading, Erie and St. Paul. Canadian Pacific yielded 1 1/2 on small transactions to 153 1/2. Willam Overland was exceptionally strong, advancing 2 1/2 to 123 1/2. Interborough Metropolitan preferred opened 3/4 higher at 73.

The stock market closed steady; governments unchanged, other bonds irregular.

Mountainous Greece.

Greece is extremely mountainous, the only plain region worthy of the name being found in Thessaly. In this province is a large quantity of undeveloped water power, furnished by torrents which sweep through the plains in the rainy season, doing great damage, their course for the remainder of the year being marked by dry ravines.

EVERYBODY WANTS OIL WITHOUT DELAY

All the aldermen were present at the meeting of the common council on Friday night when most every one wanted streets in his ward oiled at once. There has been considerable trouble over the oiling of streets and while the street superintendent cannot be in 4 or 5 places at once Mayor Canfield told the aldermen he was doing everything in his power to distribute the oil on principal thoroughfares. The streets now being oiled at city expense are those which were assessed under the old system. Bills and claims against the city were read and referred to the committee on auditing accounts. Warrants were ordered drawn for the amounts. W. H. Conway demanded $10,000 for injuries sustained by falling into a ditch on Emerick street. Referred to corporation counsel and law committee.

On the report of the corporation counsel as to the legality of covering the Tannery brook and encroaching on private property the matter was referred to the street department and a corporation counsel.

The board of fire commissioners sent in a communication that the inspection of the fire department would take place on June 17 and inviting the city officials to take part. On motion of Alderman Martin the invitation was accepted.

The board of education gave permission for the erection of a stand on the new high school lot for the review of the firemen's parade on June 17. Filed.

An application from an out of town coal company agreeing to furnish coal to the city at $1.30 a ton at the mines was filed. The cost would be $1.90 for delivery. Several aldermen spoke against giving any contracts to out of town concerns. A communication was received from the Automatic Registering Machine Company asking for a hearing before any voting machines were purchased was also filed.

The following resolutions were then introduced:

By Alderman Schick, that Highland avenue be repaved from Park to Chester streets. Referred to street committee.

By Alderman Martin, that the refusal of the Kingston Gas and Electric Company to extend gas main on Hudson avenue be referred to the public service commission. Referred to corporation counsel.

By Alderman Schick, that the city engineer establish grade on Sherman street. Referred with power.

By Alderman Schick, that city engineer establish grade on Emerick street. Referred to engineer to report at next meeting if possible.

By Alderman Mitchell, that chief of police notify property owners on Ann street between Pierpont and Murray streets to lay curb and gutter. Carried.

By Alderman Myers, that the street superintendent repair inlet at Pine and Henry streets as it is in a dangerous condition and one child has already fallen into it. Referred to street superintendent with power.

By Alderman Martin, that street superintendent build concrete bridge at Grand View Heights. Referred to street committee.

By Alderman Schick, that a committee of three be appointed to procure a new flag for the city hall at a cost not to exceed $25. Rule 12 was suspended and the purchase ordered made. Aldermen Martin, Smith and Schick were appointed such committee.

By Alderman Mitchell, that catch basin at Ann and Union streets be cleaned. Referred to street committee.

By Alderman McCullough, that McIntee street be graded according to ordinance. Referred.

By Alderman Mitchell, that street superintendent relay crosswalk at Ann and Meadow streets. Referred to street superintendent.

By Alderman McCullough, that an electric light be placed on Wurts street in front of Lutheran Church of the Redeemer and incandescent light be discontinued. On motion of Alderman Schick Rule 12 was suspended and the light ordered installed.

By Alderman Mitchell, that when stone blocks are laid on Pierpont street hill that the work be extended to Chambers street. Referred to street superintendent with power.

By Alderman McCullough, that as the Eighth ward has practically been wiped off the map that it get its share of oiling as the roads are very dusty. Present Connolly spoke to the resolution and inquired what system had been employed in oiling streets. Mayor Canfield said it had been done in the order in which the oiling had been done under the former special assessments. Principal thoroughfares and those most in use had been treated. If every street was to be oiled it would cost $10,000 and there was not enough money to go around.

Alderman Schick said he understood it was to be every street that had been graded and curbed. Alderman McCullough spoke of the necessity of oiling Montrose avenue leading to the cemetery. Finally the matter was referred to the street superintendent.

By Alderman Schick, that Foxhall avenue be oiled. Referred to street superintendent.

By Alderman Martin, that a tile pipe be laid from Taylor street to Washington avenue. Referred to street committee.

By Alderman Schick, that an arc light be placed at Jansen avenue and O'Reilly street. Referred to ways and means committee.

Alderman Martin, that the several departments under jurisdiction of common council be granted a holiday with pay to employees on June 17. A discussion arose over this. The mayor claiming it would cost $200 for the holiday. Others thought half a day was enough. Alderman Schick said the plan heretofore had been to have the men to go work at 4 o'clock or so and work four or five hours. The men to have the rest of the day at full pay. Alderman Moyle amended that they be given half a day. While the discussion was in progress Alderman Martin withdrew his motion.

By Alderman Martin, that a committee of three be appointed to have the city hall decorated on June 17, at a cost not to exceed $75. Carried. Aldermen Martin, Schick and Mitchell were appointed.

This resolution also created some discussion as the members of the council wanted to know if the committee would engage local people for the work. This was the opinion of the committee and the matter was dropped.

Alderman McKittick moved to reconsider the vote on the jetney ordinance.

Alderman Schick moved to adjourn, but withdrew it for a time until Alderman Martin introduced a resolution that the heads of several departments use their discretion in giving holiday to employees on June 17. Lost.

The council then adjourned.

$30,000,000 HEIRESS TO WED YOUNG MAN WHO'S ON HER PAY-ROLL. THE PICTURE SHOWS MISS CATHERINE BARKER.

Chicago, June 5.—James B. Forgan, president of the First National Bank, announced today the engagement of his ward, Miss Catherine Barker, to Howard H. Spalding.

She is only nineteen and four years ago, her father, John H. Barker, died, leaving an estate of $30,000,000 in trust for her in the First National Bank.

Miss Barker has been the heroine of interesting adventures which have given Mr. Forgan anxious moments during his year of guardianship. She received more letters proposing marriage than perhaps any young woman in Chicago. From every state and nation practically the world over they came, and most of them, Mr. Forgan contends, she has never seen.

Young Spalding has taken an executive position in the Haskell & Barker Company, a concern owned by his father.

Decorated a Brave Horse. Human beings hold no monopoly when it comes to winning medals for feats of valor in war. A Russian artillery horse won a bronze medal at Plevna in the following manner:

Orders were taken for some ammunition wagons to be hurried to a spot that meant crossing the enemy's zone of fire. All the time shells were crashing among the horses, bludgeoning them down in heaps and frightening such as escaped. Times without number did the Russian drivers, sparing neither whip nor spur, attempt to urge the horses forward, but they stood cowed and shivering with fright. So the were blindfolded, but the effect was the same, and only one horse showed any willingness to go. Thereupon the driver jumped down and, cutting the traces of the other horses, drove the willing one at full gallop through the fire. The wagon passed through without exploding, and after the war the horse was decorated and the driver promoted.—Chicago Herald.

The Visitor. Opportunity knocked twice at the man's door and was about to knock a third time when the door was hurriedly opened by a woman.

"Where is the man?" said Opportunity. "Come! I've no time to lose."

"You're the very one he's looking for," said the woman. "But—he's occupied."

"You're his wife, aren't you? Tell him to come."

"He won't believe me. He'll think I'm mistaken. He'll think you are some one else."

"That isn't my fault. I've done my duty. Good day."

"Oh, please don't go! I'll tell him. I'll try to convince him who you are. Give me a little time."

Just at this moment the man rushed out and grabbed Opportunity. Then he turned roughly to his wife.

"Why didn't you let me know she was knocking?" he said. "Why, she almost got away! Just like you!"—Life.

Mother Love. When the first baby comes most fathers regard it as a little, red, wriggling lump of humanity, but in the mother's eyes it is the most wonderful being that ever came into the world and she wonders why God was good enough to give it to her.

THE BETTER MAN.

Story of Two Aspirants For a Place on the Boat Crew.

A few seasons ago, says a prominent crew coach in Outing, two men were competing closely for a seat in the "Varsity" boat. One day I called them together and said:

"Just now you two men are working equally well in the boat, but one has a better scholarship standing than the other, and to me that seems to indicate that one of you has a little more personal pride than the other."

As a matter of fact, the man who was not up to the scratch in his work was a bit the better of the two as far as smoothness in the boat was concerned. I thought the incident might cause him to pick up in his classes. It did not. When the time came to make a final selection of the eight I again called the pair in to see me.

"It's still hard to decide between you two. I would just as soon have you throw a coin to decide the winner," I said.

The man with the poor scholarship record was the first to speak.

"That's all right with me," he said. "The other man thought for a minute. I saw his mouth go tight. Then he said:

"No, sir; that doesn't suit me. One of us must be the best man. I want to know which and to know why I am not the best man."

Some people would probably have thought that fellow conceited, but not if they knew what it means for a youngster to put in months and months of hard training for a crew. The second man was of a quiet type, but after he spoke I knew the thing that every coach is most anxious to find out—that he was the kind who would be pulling hardest when his lungs were feeling like bursting in that last hard half mile. You can guess which man got the place. The man who did not was too easily satisfied.

Detecting Erasures.

If paper upon which erasures of writing have been made is exposed to the vapor of iodine the roughened surface takes a different tint from that portion which has not been tampered with. If the erasure has been lightly made, only the ink or pencil lead being rubbed away and the mark left in the fiber of the paper, iodine vapor causes the writing to reappear. This is because wherever the paper has been roughened more iodine is absorbed than by a smooth surface. This test is effective within three minutes after the making of the alteration.—Exchange.

A Veritable Scheme.

"How do you get your daughter's beau to go home so early, Bjones?"

"I have a trained phonograph, which plays 'Home, Sweet Home,' at 10. 'Tramp, Tramp, Tramp,' at 10:15 and 'Johnny, Get Your Gun,' at 10:30."—Seattle Star.

Are You Too Fat?

If you are too stout don't take fat reducing medicines. Cut down on your diet, get out-of-door exercise, and you will assume normal lines and reduce to normal weight. Avoid sweets, eggs, cream, fat meats, and especially potatoes. Live mainly on lettuce, spinach, cabbage, lean meats, young onions, celery, tomatoes, etc. Take salted toast instead of bread and butter. If you cease to give your body fat-making foods you will cease creating fat cells. It is no trick to reduce if you practice self-denial.

SIR EDWARD SPEYER AND FAMILY SEEK REFUGE IN AMERICA FROM BRITISH "SPY MAD" MOBS.

The picture shows Sir Edward Speyer and his wife, who arrived in New York aboard the American liner Philadelphia for an extended visit to James Speyer, the noted New York banker.

It is believed that Sir Edward's reasons for bringing his family to this country at this time is due to the great agitation against influential German residents in London, since the Lusitania disaster. Sir Edward at that time, rendered his resignation from the privy council and offered to give up his title, but both were refused by the Crown, who are affirmed of his belief in his integrity.

Below are shown the three children of Sir Edward from left to right Misses Pamela, Leonora and Vivian Speyer.

The bones were mounted by the most famous scientists and zoologists of the country and is now on public view at the Los Angeles County Museum of Natural History, Science and Art.

DOYLE ADDS RARE PLAY TO IVORY-TOP HISTORY.

Boston, June 5.—Fans here are still talking about Doyle's bone! It has been said that none but heady players can make bone-headed plays. If that is so then Captain Larry Doyle, of the Giants, can be put down as about the headiest subject that any league manager can put on the operating table for a dome examination. But for Larry's play the Giants would have handily won the game from the Boston Clumps in nine innings whereas the game was called at the end of the tenth with the score a tie at five all.

With one man out and Moran on third base Doyle stung a wicked single to deep right that Moran captured on the run. Burns started slowly for home and Doyle instead of stampeding on to second for the extra base, his hit might have stretched into stopped half way between first and second and deliberately caught Moran's line throw to intercept Burns at home. Burns could never have been caught but the Boston players raised so much fuss about the irregular play that Umpires Quigley and Eason declared both Burns and Doyle out for the latter's interference. That retired the side and handed Boston a tie out of what should have been a sure victory—and which Boston may make a victory when the tie is played off.

Silverware, which is becoming more and more the most popular wedding gift, must have a standard of merit to be appreciated by the bride. If it is Gorham's you know and she knows that it is genuine. KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 5, 1915.

Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels seems to have a mind of about the same caliber as that of Vice-President Marshall. He has just been telling the Annapolis graduates that a battleship "might be so fitted that it would not sink after being hit." If that is so, there is no reason why we cannot construct aeroplanes which will not fall when hit. Also, we might breed soldiers who cannot be killed or captured. After a while war will become a less bloody sport than football, and it will supersede yacht races, Olympic games and other international sporting contests.

The German Government now apologizes for the attack upon the Gulfight, which it calls an "unfortunate accident." According to its own account of the affair it is clear that there will continue to be such accidents while the submarine war on merchant vessels continues. Apologies are all right for a first offense, but they are not satisfactory as a steady diet. A private citizen who blindfolded himself and then shot off his revolver at haphazard in a crowded street would not be permitted to square himself by expressing his regrets, offering to pay damages, and announcing that he would repeat the performance every day. Yet that would be quite as sensible as to allow Germany to continue her recklessness.

One might suppose that the decision of the District Court in the Steel Corporation case would be regarded as a piece of good luck by the Wilson administration, considering the business situation, and that it would let it go at that. But no. Attorney General Gregory announces that an appeal will be taken to the United States Supreme Court. Since it was shown in the trial that the Steel Corporation does not drive out competition, and that the growth of its rivals was greater proportionally than its own, the only object in appealing is to upset the ruling that the size of a corporation is immaterial so long as it does not use its great power unlawfully. The Government is not only opposed to wrong-doing, but it insists that corporations shall be so weak that they cannot do wrong if they want to. The famous Sandow in his prime was so powerful that he could have easily broken any other man in two. If he had done so he would have been executed, but inasmuch as he was extremely peaceable and never used his strength obnoxiously, the law never touched him. Why should corporations not be treated in accordance with the same principle? In England and Germany they encourage business concerns to become as big as possible, and if we persist in the opposite policy we are not going to be able to get our share of the world's trade. The Administration is evidently determined to leave nothing undone to worry business men.

Chief Judge Willard Bartlett of the Court of Appeals agrees with Judge Clearwater of this city that most of the exemptions from jury duty ought to be abolished. There is no argument on the other side that we ever heard or can think of, but the classes now exempt are anxious to remain so, and there may be enough of them to imperil the adoption of the new Constitution if they became aroused. No good citizen would object to doing his share of jury duty if he were treated like an honest gentleman instead of like a suspicious character during its performance. The presiding judge can go and come as he likes during the trial, but jurymen, who are the equals of judges in integrity, are kept prisoners for fear that somebody will tamper with them. They are suddenly torn away from their business and are subjected to serious financial losses. We do not think that this is essential to the administration of justice. Another point worthy of consideration is what would happen to women in case they were made citizens and exemptions from service on juries were prohibited. Of course, this is a remote contingency in this State, but nobody can predict with certainty the result of any popular vote. Every right-minded man would boil with indignation if his women folks were compelled to serve on juries under any conditions—and especially under those which now exist. Any voter who carefully considers this possibility will ever after be proof against the foolish arguments of the suffragists.

A WORD OF ADVICE.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

There is one thing which every self-supporting woman should adopt as part of her working creed, and that is the imperative need of setting apart a fixed sum, not alone for the proverbial rainy day, but for those long sunny days when productive work is over, days made easy and comfortable if there is exemption from money-worry.

For not even the satisfaction that beautifully waits upon the possession of luxuries in the hey-day of life can compensate for the loss of independence later on.

It hardly seems fair to associate failure with lack of funds, but life must be followed in obedience to fact, rather than as one might like it, and hard realities say that without money, care grows apace, friends drop away and dependence makes life a burden.

If a woman depends upon her own brain-work or the labor of her hands for maintenance and receives fair compensation, with her rests the decision as to what the final verdict shall be—success or failure.

It is when she wins that the bachelor-woman comes into her own. If her life has been given over to pursuits that take her away from the home and the work has yielded well financially, things move along merrily enough while the income is regular and fairly generous—but when the income stops?

In spite of the passing of the "old maid," there are still rather critical eyes turned to her more serene, more dignified successor, the bachelor-woman, and if she is to hold her own she must have money, else there will be ominous shakings of the head, pronouncements of failure and predictions of an unhappy end.

The average woman who does not marry quite freely admits that in the ideal life, as she conceives it, wedding-bells are heard; and if they are skipped, the ideal is not fully reached.

She knows that, of themselves, they cannot possibly insure the ideal, but if she has dropped matrimony from her scheme of life and depends rather more upon the entrance of other issues to round out the sum-total of happiness, money-freedom looms all the more important.

A bachelor-woman, grown old in service, eking out a livelihood as best she may, inspires pity, and one instinctively asks if she might not have done better had she taken her chances in marriage, even though judgment and natural promptings said "no" to the opportunities that were hers.

But a bachelor-woman who can drop her working tools when the time for rest is at hand and show the financial fruits of her labor invites the admiration that always waits upon success.

It takes some courage to live so well within one's income that it means the repression of desires for the luxurious in order to prepare for some day that never may dawn. But, after all, it takes rather more to face that day unprepared and to confess that the time has come when one must live upon pleasures and comforts remembered because there is no wherewithal for present luxuries, no security even from want.

Pleasures remembered may be mighty sweet or they may be tinged with more of regret than anything else. If secured at the cost of later serenity and peace of mind they savor too much of the bad old process of sowing the winds for the reaping of whirlwinds.

For the self-denials upon which tomorrow's enjoyment are built, the bachelor-woman will have no regrets, but for every excursion into the land of luxury when it eats too heavily into resources, there may be a hard day of reckoning.

Always assuming that the bachelor-woman, like all other women and men, remembers that play must have its day now and then.

And whatever good married folk may be able to afford, whether satisfied to live beyond their means or not, the bachelor-woman owes it to herself to make some sacrifices for the sake of an independent future.

If she has not followed the way of the majority of the feminine world and fails to "make good" in the way of her choosing, critical watchers will have plenty to say—but that will be the least of her troubles.

FRANCES SHAFPER.

Tires."

—Mr. Squeezee

A man is a good deal like a tire.
His greatness depends on the crowd he is in.
The really great man—the leader—literally has to meet all comers in the contest for public approval.
Any tire is the best tire in a crowd of inferiors.
But nowadays a tire has to be extraordinary if it is to make and hold a record for superior service and mileage economy.
It is the extraordinary quality of Diamond
Tires that has given them their deserved pre-eminence.
Send for our book of letters from dealers who sold Diamond Tires in 1914.
It tells how more than 99 out of every 100 of the more than half a million Diamond Tires sold last year gave maximum service at minimum mileage cost.
It is yours for the asking.

ESOPUS COMPANIES THAT PAY NO TAXES

The Shetland Company's home office in Port Ewen was a desk in the office of Judge Henry E. McKensie of that village according to the judge's testimony given in county court in Brooklyn on Thursday when the judge was called as a witness in the trial of Edward M. Grout, president of the Union Bank of Brooklyn.
Mr. Grout is being tried on a charge of perjury and Judge McKensie was called as witness by District Attorney Crosby who is prosecuting the case against Grout.

According to the Brooklyn Eagle the Shetland Company was organized in 1909 with principal offices in Port Ewen. After the company was started it gave its own checks to the Union Bank whenever money was drawn to meet expenses in property transactions and the money with which it paid the checks had been advanced in the first place by the Union Bank. For the first $1,000 drawn by the Shetland Company, which was the amount of the capital,
no return was made to the Union Bank. When that amount had been drawn and was used up, the company's promissory notes were given to the bank whenever money was needed for closing titles and when the bank closed on 1910 it held prom-issory notes of the Shetland Company amounting to $460,000.

When Judge McKensie testified the Eagle said he shed some interesting light on the "home" office and with testimony that brightened up the dull routine of the trial he showed it up as a purely technical affair.
The gist of the testimony of Judge McKensie as printed in the Eagle is as follows:

Henry E. McKensie of Port Ewen, Ulster County, N. Y., where he is the principal agent for the Shetland Company, testified when called by Mr.
Crosby that all the business he ever did for the company was to pay its taxes and get rental allowance for the use of the office.

"Have they a desk in the office?"
"They had my desk."
"One of their own?"
"No."

"What did they have there?"
"Their principal office. I have a lot of those kind of things."

"What years did you pay the taxes?"
"From 1909 to 1914, inclusive."

"The certificate of incorporation was filed in the county clerk's office on March 25, 1909. Should they be taxed for that year?"
"I object as to the form of the question," said Mr. Baldwin.

"Oh, pooh-pooh!" said Mr. Crosby.

"Don't you pooh-pooh me," shouted Mr. Baldwin.

"When did you first become the principal agent?"
"August 25, 1909."

"How many companies are you principal agent for?"
"Eighty-two. Some of them the biggest companies of New York."

"All at $25 a year each?"
"No; it depends on the capitalization and how many companies are allied with them."

"The certificates are filed in the county clerk's office of your county and the taxes are based on that?"

"The tax assessors of my town never look in the county clerk's office for certification, and one lawyer, Franklin Bean, has forty-five companies in my town that are not assessed a cent."

Mr. Baldwin brought out that Port Ewen is the headquarters for thousands of companies.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

1259—A Simple and Attractive Tub
Dress—Ladies' House or Home Dress, with Chemise, and With Sleeve in Either of Two Lengths in Raised or Normal Waistline.

Brown and white checked gingham was used for this style, with white corduroy for collar and cuffs. The model would be nice for striped ser-sucker, for chambray and percale.
It is fine for drill, linen or flannel, and also good for serge voile or poplin. It will make a nice neat business suit. The right waist front is shaped over the left, and the low, comfortable back is finished with a deep collar. The sleeve may be long or short, as preferred, with a neat cuff finish. The skirt is a four gored model, cut on new lines and with ample fullness. The pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 6 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for a 36 inch size. The skirt measures about 2 3/4 yards at its lower edge.

A pattern of this illustration

GOODNESS FIRST

PRICE AFTERWARD

That's the rule here. When we are buying furniture, we don't try to see how cheap we can get the goods, but how good.
When we've got a satisfactory quality, we think of the price.
That's the safest way to do.
It's the most economical, too,
if you're looking for real,

Remedy For Loss of Facial Contour.
We all know it in other people—the loss of the clear line of the jaw, the droop of the cheeks and mouth, the lumpy appearance under the chin. And it has nothing to do with superfluous flesh, although it is commonly considered to be the result of fat. Indeed, in many cases an increase in plumpness hides rather than emphasizes the condition. The mischief goes back to the underlying muscles and so disproves the old adage that beauty is only skin deep. And nothing has a more disastrous effect upon these muscles, which, like little cushions, support the superstructure of the face, than anxiety and worry added to the strain of unaccustomed work, lack of accustomed exercise, and so on.

And the remedy?
Well, this is, in the early stages anyway, easily found in massage with a cream of slightly astringent character. Which make is used is a matter for individual choice, but it should be not merely an emollient or a cleansing cream, but one which incorporates ingredients to strengthen the muscles and rejuvenate the tissues.
Once possessed of this, it should be put in little lumps on the jawbone and above it to the temple if there is any tendency to falling in the upper part of the cheek, as will probably be the case after the first quarter century is passed; then with the tips of the fingers gently work the cream into the skin, beginning at the chin and stroking upward and outward along the line of the jaw, continuing the process in parallel lines, as it were, above this first and most important one. You will understand that the strokes—which is the most expressive word to use—should in each case begin at the chin or base of the nose and end more or less about the ear. There must be no rubbing to and fro, no hint of pressure downward or a return journey of the massaging hands.

Some six or eight strokes, each given slowly with firm, though gentle, pressure, should be given to the jawbone itself, when the best position will be to place the middle finger of the hand on the actual bone, with the first and third above and below it respectively. This is the most important part, and the amount of repetition which is devoted to the part above depends more or less on the time which can be given to the treatment and the state of slackness in which the face has fallen.

Control Thoughts For Lip Beauty.

The mouth is often said to be the greatest index to character, and the beauty of the mouth, more than any other feature, depends upon the woman herself. Thought and action are the sculptors of the mouth, and these are under the individual's control. As the lips are a nucleus of nerves surrounded by very many muscles, their contour is changed with every passing thought, and of all features they are the most susceptible of action and the most direct indices of the feelings.

Thin lips are formed by a constant thought and battle against minor difficulties. Persons of weak will have habitually compressed lips.
A woman can spoil a beautiful face by an unlovely expression of the mouth. It is therefore of vast importance that you should give serious attention to the fact that the mouth is in such intimate sympathy with your every thought and feeling.

If you will cultivate a critical faculty you will find many curious and absurd tricks and mannerisms by which otherwise attractive women are made ugly.

Habitual pouting enlarges and coarsens the lower lip.

Do not twist your mouth, either in scorn or thrust the mouth and chin forward, as is often done under a fancied sense of injury. These unfortunate contortions are often acquired by imitating others or from just witnessing others' actions. It therefore behooves the woman to be careful how she uses her mouth, for there is no period in life when these subtle and silent agents—the muscles and their controlling nerves—are not at work making or marring the beauty of the face.

Lip Salve Recipes.

No one need have dry or cracked lips. The application of carbolated vaseline, glycerin and rosewater, camphor ice made of refined lamb tallow, two ounces, and a piece of gum camphor the size of a butter nut contain splendid healing properties. Before going out in the cold weather apply the vaseline softly and then wipe off. Do not chew and wet the lips.

A good healing compound for chapped lips is: Cocoa butter, twenty-four grams; white wax, four grams; essence of bergamot, one gram. Melt and beat together.

A good salve for the lips is: Spermaceti ointment, one ounce; balsam of peru, fifteen grains; alkanet root, fifteen grains; oil of cloves, five drops.

Digest the alkanet in the ointment at gentle heat till the latter is a deep rose color; then pass through a coarse strainer. When slightly cooled stir in the balsam; give a few moments to settle; then pour off the clear portion and add the oil of cloves.

Nestled Eggs.

NESTED EGGS.—Separate whites from the yolks of eggs, beat the whites to a stiff froth and lay yolks aside. Have ready slices of toast made from slices of bread cut rather thick. Put a layer of minced ham or tongue on toast; then pile a portion of the stiffly beaten white of egg on this. Make a depression in the center of it and drop the yolk into this. Season with salt and pepper and bake just until the eggs are set. Very small fragments of ham or tongue will serve for this dish.

Robin's Nest Salad.—On each individual salad dish place one-half of a large golden peach, fresh or preserved, cut side up. In the hollow of each peach put six blanched hazelnuts and six seedless grapes well washed, add a good sprinkle of powdered sugar and have ready one pint of whipped cream to which has been added the white of an egg beaten to a stiff froth. Mix well into the cream the white of the egg, which keeps the cream in place. Then put two tablespoonfuls of the cream over the fruit and serve.

How to Plank Fish.—To insure appetizing variety in serving fish broiling and planking should not be overlooked. The delicious "planked shad," which can be enjoyed at its best only during the short season of fresh spring shad, may have very desirable substitutes throughout the year with a little care in selection and preparation, as many other fish may be "planked" as well as shad. Planked fish may also be known as baked fish, as it is cooked in the oven, although a broiling process similar to planking is often resorted to for small fish.

For the oven broiling process the cooking is accomplished in the oven of a gas stove. Instead of the regular broiler a greased tin is used, and the fish are placed skin side down on the tin and slipped under the flame of the broiling oven. For the first rapid cooking, until the fish are nicely browned, the burners are turned on full; then for the final simmering, or the slow broiling that is to make the fish tasty and thoroughly cooked, the burners are turned low, allowing the fish to cook for about half an hour, with browned skin and tender flakiness.

The Youth of Athens.

When Athens gave every fourth block to her children and youth for the gymnasium and the playground she built bodies of silk and steel, and great men walked up and down her streets in regiments, and her health bloomed in the orations of Demosthenes, and the essays of Plato and the marbles of Phidias. Just as soon as the race and the body began to deteriorate, Athens went to pieces. This has been the story, also, of Ephesus, and Corinth, and Venice.—Newell Dwight Hillis.

Safety First Idea.

PRESIDENT WILSON DEMANDS THAT MEXICO FIND "STRONG MAN" TO PACIFY THAT COUNTRY.

The picture shows some of the prominent politicians of Mexico. Will the man who can unite the warring factions and bring peace out of the present reign of terror in Mexico, as demanded by President Wilson, be one of them?

Glacier Protection.

Protecting itself against a glacier is the peculiar problem that confronts the town of Valdez, Alaska. This glacier, situated between mountain masses several miles away, has proved dangerous in periods of long sunshine, when great masses of ice sometimes fall to the ground, releasing tons of water that had been held in pools and ponds on the glacier. The water rushing to the town picked up trees and bowlders on the way, often doing considerable damage, as in 1911, when 108 structures were carried to the ocean. United States army officers conceived the idea of preventing the recurrence of such floods by the construction of a dike. The dike is in a general U shape, so constructed that the town lies within the arms out of reach of the water. It is 7,500 feet long and six feet wide, constructed of earth. During flood times guards patrol the dike ready to give warning if any weakness or break is discovered.—Technical World.

The Good Birds Do.

The department of agriculture informs us that out of fifty species of hawks and owls only four are actually injurious to crops. One observer tells us that he has seen with his own eyes an owl of his acquaintance swallowing nine field mice, one after another, until the tail of the last remained in evidence. However, in four hours, this meal having been digested with no apparent effort, the owl was ready for four more mice. The old hawk and his wife will consume a round dozen of mice each during a single day, and in two months' time their youthful brood will devour a similar quantity. It has been stated that a colony of hawks will kill 10,000 rodents in three months' time. We all know what damage mice perpetrate in our grain fields. The farmer may well spare a chicken or two from his henyard in payment for service rendered him by these birds of prey.—Countryside Magazine and Suburban Life.

The House Centipede.

The common house centipede is not a creature to be dreaded, although its bite is more or less poisonous, but there are so few cases on record of its biting human beings that the danger from this source may be said to be negligible. On the other hand, the centipede is a valuable destroyer of other and far more disagreeable vermin. According to a bulletin of the United States department of agriculture, it feeds on houseflies, cockroaches, moths, bedbugs and other such pests. It does not eat holes in blankets, curtains, carpets or furniture. The centipede thrives in damp places, such as bathrooms, closets, cellars and conservatories; it loves hot water pipes and steam radiators. It is not an insect, but one of the order of myriapods. If by chance a person be bitten by a centipede, bathing the spot with ammonia will speedily cure it.

Study the Habits Of the Fly Pest

In order that every citizen who is impressed with the importance of abolishing the vermin carrying bacteria breeding for mankind should first learn of the habits of the fly pest, so that he may be better prepared to combat it at every turn, many moving picture houses throughout the country are planning educational films on the fly and its habits.

Olive Oil in Nursery.
For a child who is emaciated from illness a massage with olive oil once or even twice a day will supply the needed fat to the body and also lubricate the dried-out skin. A teaspoonful of olive oil three times a day is a good tonic, good for digestion and a mild laxative when given to a baby an hour before or after a feeding. It will also soothe a tickling cough. Olive oil is also healing for burns, chapped lips and hands.

Spectacles Known to Ancients.
There are evidences in ancient writings that some sort of a spectacle was used at an earlier period than that in which de Spina lived, but to what extent or with what effect is not known. It is thought that for some ages the Chinese have employed spectacles for the relief of defective eyesight and probably they were known to the ancients.

Trial by Jury.
While we do not think that trial by jury ought to be abolished or that there is any increasing sentiment in that direction, we do believe that the system should be modified by dispensing with the requirement for unanimity verdicts. This would obviate the element of individual eccentricity as an impediment to the administration of justice. Mental idiosyncrasy on the part of judges is constantly exhibited and scarcely excites comment. An eminent and very able judge will dissent from the ruling of his associate when it is extremely difficult to understand how so gifted a mind could have gone off on that particular tangent. By permitting affirmances or reversals notwithstanding dissent the personal equation is eliminated.—New York Law Journal.

Armor In War.
Waterloo was the last great battle in which bodily armor was used. Napoleon's cavalry used it, and up to that time with some success, but in the charges there made his iron sheathed cuirassiers went down like rows of pins before the quick moving English horse dashing in upon them with only naked swords and naked arms. Paris (1870) was the first fight in which troops in large numbers were armed with the more efficient musket, while artillery had already been employed at Crete (1846), and it was only a matter of time for the new agent, gunpowder, to knock out the man at arms. The "matted barons" had no show before the new and terrible invention of firearms.

VICTIMS OF GERMAN CHLORINE GAS WARFARE.

AFTERMATH OF CHLORINE GAS WARFARE.

The picture shows soldiers of the Allies trapped in their trenches by the chlorine gas cloud recently released by the Germans as a method of war at Ypres. The man in the foreground is dead from asphyxiation, the others are unconscious, but little better off, for experience teaches that those, whom the deadly gas does not kill outright, are more or less affected physically throughout life.

FIREMEN PERFECT CONVENTION PLANS

Practically all arrangements have been completed for the convention of the H. V. F. A. in this city on June 15, 16 and 17. At the meeting of the local committee at the fire station on Friday night it was stated that except for some details of the parade everything was in shipshape. It was stated by Secretary Belcher that over six thousand pieces of mail matter had been sent out to various companies and individuals and his energy and that of Secretary Dunne were highly spoken of by Andrew J. Murphy. On motion a rising vote of thanks was given the secretaries.

President Zeeh said he would announce at the next meeting of the firemen for the company coming the longest distance, the one making the finest appearance in line and the one with the best drill team.

The matter of the position in line of the boy scouts was referred to the parade committee. Thirty-five chiefs of departments will be in line according to the report of Secretary Belcher. The matter of their entertainment was referred to the reception committee with power. According to present arrangements there will be forty-three companies in line of march in addition to the local companies. With the local companies there will be fifty-four companies on parade and many others are expected. The companies include firemen from Newburgh, Highland Falls, Mt. Vernon, North Bergen, N. J., Highland Mills, Cornwall, Monticello, Troy, Red Hook, Tannersville, Stamford, Ellenville, Castleton, Philmont, Summit, N. Fessenden, chairman of the committee on resolutions offered the following:

Since the last meeting of Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., death has taken to a wider sphere the chapter's honored and beloved Regent, Mrs. W. R. Harrison, whose interest in all good work was ever real and active. Today our hearts are burdened with a sense of profound loss and deep regret that her useful life might not have been prolonged; Therefore be it Resolved:—That Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., expresses thus publicly, regret at the final severance of the tie that bound the members of the chapter so closely to Mrs. Harrison; their sorrow for their personal loss of her wise counsel, faithful friendship and gracious courtesy. They could further express their gratitude that they have been privileged to know and work with Mrs. Harrison, feeling that the fineness of her character and the glow of her sweet spirit have helped to ennoble their own natures.

Resolved:—That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the chapter, and a copy of them sent to her family with our loving sympathy in this their hour of grief and loss.

The meeting closed with the adoption of the resolutions.

The parade headed by Clayton's band from Ellenville, followed by the different fire companies, the United Order of Mechanics, Scouts, Campfire Girls and a float decorated by the national colors with the school children and the autos with the Suffragettes marched to the cemeteries where appropriate services were conducted, then back to the school grounds and an address was delivered by the Rev. Joseph Millett.

In the afternoon a band concert was given and several games were indulged in. The celebration ended with moving pictures at the Casino, followed by dancing. The proceeds for the fire company were about $50 and $60. Much credit is due our company for the manner in which the affair was made a success.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, June 5.—The man whose name should be written in the boldest letters in the Federal League's Hall of Fame is William T. McCullough, "the man behind," the man whose courage, bankroll and fighting spirit brought the so-called "outlaw" organization back to life after it had died in 1912.

McCullough, who is secretary of the Pittsburgh Feds, and known as "Smiling Bill," shifts the honor, however. He's modest. He gives the credit to Garry Herrmann, chairman of the National Commission, and Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh Nationals.

"If it hadn't been for that pair of boys there wouldn't be any Federal League today," says "Smiling Bill." Barney and Garry probably will be surprised to learn that they had anything to do with the advent of the Federal League, but here are the facts:

In February, 1912, the United States League was born. The season opened in May with eight clubs—Cincinnati, Chicago, Cleveland and Pittsburgh in the west, and Reading, Washington, New York and Richmond in the east. William A. Whitman was president of the organization. It lasted just 30 days and then blew up.

"But during those 30 days the Pittsburgh club cleared something like $10,000," says McCullough. "That convinced me that two clubs could operate in Pittsburgh and make money. I had a ten year lease on Exposition Park in Pittsburgh and I knew if I didn't have a club to play there I would be out the lease money—$7,500 a year."

"Late in 1912 I heard that the Jersey City Club in the International League was for sale. I found that I could buy it at a reasonable price but I didn't want to have it stay in Jersey City. I wanted to have it transferred to Pittsburgh. I put the matter up to Barney Dreyfuss. He balked. He said I would be cutting in on his territory."

"Ed Barrows, president of the International League, went to see Dreyfuss in behalf of the transfer. But Dreyfuss turned him down. 'I then called on Garry Herrmann. I told him I wanted to have the Jersey City Club transferred to Pittsburgh. Garry stalled around and finally turned me down. He said I'd promise to stay out of baseball until 1916. I saw what he could do for me. I told him I was going to put a club into Pittsburgh in 1913 and if he wouldn't let me transfer the Jersey City team to that city I'd put a club of my own in there.'"

"Garry laughed at me. 'How foolish,' he said. 'That's just an idle boast. To operate a baseball league you need money and lots of it. Who will be so crazy as to put money into an outlaw league in face of what happened to the United States League?'"

"I'll find a few fellows," I told Garry. And I did. I interested capital in Chicago, Indianapolis, Cleveland, Covington and St. Louis within a few weeks. We named the organization the Federal League and opened the 1913 season and played out our schedule of 150 games.

"Some of the clubs made money; some didn't. But it seemed to all of us that if we could get better players we might make a big success of the venture. We all were enthusiastic. I did Jim Gilmore happen to get into the league?" was asked.

"Well, toward the latter part of the 1913 season the Chicago club got into a financial hole. The secretary of the club telephoned to me from Chicago while I was in Cleveland and told me to go to Chicago at once. I did. He told me the club needed $5,100 immediately for payroll purposes and that he thought he knew a man who would advance it."

"Who is he?" I asked. "Fellow named Gilmore," answered the secretary. "I've got it fixed up for you to see him tomorrow." "Well, I met Gilmore the next day. We had a lengthy talk concerning the Federal League. At its conclusion Gilmore pulled out a roll of bills, peeled off three $500 ones, and said:

"Here you are; meet the payroll and deal me in this game. I think I'm going to like it. I'll take a block of the Chicago stock and see things through to the finish."

"Gilmore was made president of the Chicago club. He held that job until he was elected to the presidency of the league in the winter of 1913. What followed afterward is too fresh in the minds of the fans to tell over again."

He Saw the Fight.

To the Sporting Editor:
Dear Sir:
I read an article in your valuable paper in which you say that Jim Coffey gave Jim Flynn an awful beating. I personally would like to contradict that statement for I was there at the ringside and saw every blow that was struck. In the second round of that fight, Jim Flynn had Jim Coffey almost out and only for Flynn breaking his arm in the third round of the battle, he would have beaten Jim Coffey.

Hoping you will give this space in your valuable paper, I remain yours,
A CONSTANT READER.

Uster's Baseball Team Averages.

In the last week the relative standing of the Uster batters was given a general shake up. Downer regained the title as best batter, Pehleman sliding way down the list. Terwilliger, whose improvement in batting has been great during the last few weeks, has passed the .300 mark and gives signs of remaining there all season.

The surprise to spring this time is Shultis's jump from eighth position to the third rung of the ladder. Hallinan's slugging in the K. A. match gives him fourth place. Terwilliger leads the base stealers with Hallinan, Pehleman, Downer and Shultis close behind him.

The team's record in its batting stride and gives evidence of having at least four batters over .300 before the season is ended. The general average is .241.

Peyer's error in the K. A. game spoiled his spotless record in fielding and Kiernan's did likewise. The team's fielding average slumped a little and is now .923.

The averages:

LOCAL BASEBALL DOINGS.

Games Played or to be Played by the Home Teams.

That the Tri-County League game on McVey's field Sunday will be an exciting contest seems a foregone conclusion. The Red Monograms and the Astors of Rhinebeck will battle for supremacy. The Astors defeated the Monograms last Saturday at Rhinebeck by a score of 5 and 4.

For the information of those fans whose interest in baseball has been on the decrease since the defeat of the Monograms in several recent games, it is stated that during the week Manager Brown has taken up the slack in his team and added new players, among whom are "Cy" Connors and Arthur Rice, who played on the Kingstons in the Hudson River League, and several others with whom final arrangements have not been completed at this writing.

But who will probably be signed up in time for tomorrow's game. Manager Brown has also secured the services of a clever New York pitcher, who will in all likelihood hurl for the Monograms Sunday. The "canning" of careless Monogram players has begun and pruning will be continued by Manager Brown until his team is able to reach the top of the list of standing of clubs in the Tri-County League.

K. A. OF NOT GUILTY.

Students There Not Only Ones Who Oppose Crime.

Kingston Academy, June 4, 1915. To the Editor of The Freeman.
Sir—In last night's issue of your paper I find a well merited condemnation of the recent defiling of Kingston Academy, presumably by students of Uster Academy. Unfortunately, there seems to be a prevailing impression among the Uster student body that that item was inspired by a Kingston Academy student. While we heartily agree with all the statements which appeared there, I am sure that no student of this high school would have such an article inserted. It would be contrary to the spirit of our school. If the impression now held by the Uster students is not corrected, I am sure that it will breed a great deal of ill feeling in the new Kingston high school. It would, I am sure, be a great service to Kingston Academy if you would correct this impression.

Sincerely yours,
A. K. A. STUDENT.

The item in question was written by a graduate of Uster Academy who is opposed to criminal acts by anybody.—(Editor Freeman.)
